what would you see, what would you feel?

Asking pupils to picture for themselves what a landslide through the window might look like

On 15th February 2010, a huge landslide occurred in Maierato, Calabria, Italy. It seems that the landslide was triggered by heavy rainfall in the region. Two hundred people were evacuated and it caused power failures. Video footage can be seen on this website, (Natural Hazards category - Landslide through the window.)
